ABSTRACT

TITISUHARTI : THE CORRELATION BETWEEN STUDENTS' MOTIVATIONIN LEARNING ENGLISH AND THEIR ACHIEVEMENT IN READING COMPREHENSION AT THE FIRST GRADE STUDENTS OF MTS AT-TAQWA PASAWAHAN

In communication, there are four skills of language namely, listening, speaking, reading, and writing. Moreover, reading activity is supposed to be the skill that is very standing out in the world of education. By reading, someone can get some informations and knowledge that have not known before. The problem is if he/ she has to learn English, he/ she absolutely will not understand to comprehend the reading. To be competent in achievement in reading comprehension it needs motivation in learning English and the habit of read.

The aims of the research in writing this thesis are to find out the data about students' motivation in learning English, to find out the students' achievement in reading comprehension, and to find out the correlation between students' motivation in learning English and their achievement in reading comprehension.

The formulation of the problem in writing this thesis is divided into four parts namely, the identification of the problem, the limitation of the problem, the questions of the research, and the aims of the research. In this case, the writer discuss about students' motivation in learning English and their achievement in reading comprehension.

The method of the research in writing this thesis is using a quantitative method. It means that the data, which are obtained from the field of the research, then analyzed statistically by means of numbers by using Pearson's correlation product.

The result of the test shows that the average score of the students' motivation in learning English was 67.66 and the average score of students' achievement in reading comprehension was 63.96. Both of these scores can be categorized as "sufficient". Meanwhile, the calculation by using Product Moment correlation by Pearson, indicates the result of the correlation between students' motivation in learning English and their achievement in reading comprehension is 3.70. It means that between X and Y variable there is sufficient correlation. In other words, there is a significant and positive correlation of students' motivation in learning English and their achievement in reading comprehension at the first grade students of MTs At-Taqwa Pasawahan.

CHAPTER I

INTRODUCTION

A. The Background of the Problem

Teaching and learning in the classroom is an activity of transforming knowledge, attitude, and skill. Teachers are expected to motivate, develop, and increase learning capacity, and ability owned by students. Teaching and learning should be motivation on students, and then the students who join in learning process will be able to develop their comprehension the ways of learning, execution and assessment of learning process.

English is one of study at schools. One of achievement or goal of teaching-learning English as a foreign language, the students are hoped to be able understand and comprehend the meaning of the language. In fact, just small students can understand, comprehend and like English.

This similar phenomenon occurs in the first grade students of MTs At-Taqwa Pasawahan. When the researcher did survey on that school, she found some problem in teaching and learning English. There are the students are unlike English, difficult to understand what the teacher's explanation, the students cannot studied effectively, and difficult to comprehending the material of English.

English also as an international communication means that would make it absolutely the most important language in the world. English is used for communication in various fields of sciences and arts and in aviation. Even today, knowledge, science, technology, and most of the books are written in English.

that his wanting is the motive for his behavior.”

This paper will be dealing with the reading comprehension of the students, the writer realizes that if students just listen to experience of the teacher it is not sufficient to develop their ability in comprehending the passage.

The writer has analyzed the fact that most students or for this reason who have learned English for at least years in junior high school cannot show the success of this. They will try to provide one will how to develop the ability of students' in reading comprehension. However, she believes that almost all teachers always try to teach their students as well as they can.

The writer has thought that one of the various affective techniques of teaching is to make the students be able to comprehend the passage. She believes it will be easy to improve the ability of learning English. This way, the students will able to comprehend the passage correctly, in this context Williard Ell state in his book, “The library as an effective tool to make value for use of teacher and pupils in the interest of better and learning”.

It is true what most students get from school just the explanation about the passage only, while vocabulary and structure are very limited. Meanwhile, we know that the meaning of certain words depends on the context. It is not sufficient for the students to learn English focusing on the explanation of the teacher only. On the other hand, by reading a lot the students will at least be intended to understand the passage and use it in daily communication.
